

The Fayetteville Observer

HOME EDITION

VOL. CXCIII-No. 138

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 2009

www.fayobserver.com

50¢

EATING OUT

Bojangles'

This Charlotte-based chain is on a serious building spree, opening about one restaurant per week.

Bojangles' said it opened more locations in 2008 than in any year since 1985, and it has more in the pipeline this year. Locally, that has translated into a Bojangles' under construction in Raeford. There also are plans to open in Elizabethtown later this year or early 2010, said Eric Newman, executive vice president of Bojangles'.

The momentum is partly from people trading in pricier sit-down meals in favor of quick service during "difficult times," he said. "People are looking for value."